

Let America Be Simple

By Cade Hink

Let America be uncomplicated and simple.

Let it be the National Parks that have been protected since Theodore Roosevelt.

Let it be the hard working immigrants seeking an opportunity at the American dream.

But is the American dream even real?

Let it be the dream the dreamers dreamed.

Let it be that people are inspired, not discouraged, and where everyone is a piece of the puzzle working together to make the final product as clear as a Lake Superior reflection.

We should never be divided by color like pieces on a chess board.

Let the land be where people have the right to speak out and have their voices heard.

Where people don't have to go on strike for fair and equal pay.

Let America be uncomplicated and simple.
